Country Property Doors

The Collection

For any home getting the front door right is important. It dictates so much about the character of a country property and is a very personal choice. Our selection of reclaimed doors is full of designs that were so well thought out by the original craftsmen and are a perfect start to having an entrance to your home that feels right.

If you are trying to match a door from your neighbourhood or tie in a new extension to match the rest of your home then sourcing a reclaimed door is the best option as many original designs are no longer available.

Country Property Doors - Fine Details

Doors that befit a Country Home

Country properties demand traditional doors using reclaimed materials to match the ageing and patina of other construction materials in an old home.

We have both the skill and knowledge, built up over many years, that leads to an understanding and sympathy for the introduction of period features into an old property.

Cottage and rural styles are often individual and unique no two doors are the same. We can source an appropriate door from our stock as a starting point for the restoration.

Alternatively we can fabricate a door of perfect design that is constructed from local material carefully selected to match in with your property.

Finishing the door to perfection

Resolving the design, material and craftsmanship is often not itself enough. We complete the project with our own unique blend of finishes and textures and include the fitting of restored iron mongery to suit the overall design.

Hidden away amongst all this creative work are unobtrusive modern components including security locks, draught exclusion, weather proofing and security glazing.

Providing you with the peace of mind that you have a stunning looking door that complements your home yet is completely safe, secure and sound.

Available in old oak, pine and other woods, doors are sold as available or restored to their full glory.

With over 1000 doors in stock ranging from 18th C Oak country cottage, Georgian, Edwardian and Victorian and many more unusual and ornate designs we have the one of the largest ranges available, for you to choose the door to suit your style and make an impression to your visitors.
